PREFACE.

THE fifth volume of the Catalogue of "Engraved British Portraits" follows the fourth, published in 1914, after a long interval, caused by the War. It was originally intended that this volume should contain, in addition to the section describing Portrait Groups, a supplement describing, in alphabetical order, the numerous single portraits which have been acquired during the preparation of this Catalogue, and are not included in Vols. I–IV.

It has, however, been decided, in order to avoid undue delay and to enhance the practical utility and handiness of the book for reference, to publish the Section of Groups, followed by a special index to all the persons mentioned in it, as a short separate volume, and to reserve for a sixth, which is in active preparation, the alphabetical supplement and the index to artists and engravers whose names occur throughout the Catalogue.

The present volume, as far as p. 83, is the work of Mr. F. M. O'Donoghue, who compiled it during the years 1914 and 1915. The Addenda to the Section of Groups, and the Index of Names, have been compiled by Mr. H. M. Hake, who has been entrusted with the continuation of the Catalogue.

OF ENGRAVED

BRITISH PORTRAITS

GROUPS

In this section of the catalogue are described all prints in which three or more persons are represented. These fall into two divisions:—1. Compositions grouped pictorially; 2. Plates on which several separate portraits are brought together, these being mainly illustrations to books.

which several separate portraits are brought together, these being mainly illustrations to books.

The first division is classified according to the subjects, Historical, Theatrical, Families and Various. As the second division does not lend itself to such classification, the items are placed, as nearly as is possible, according to the social position and professions of the persons represented.
